Wyeth again chooses Movianto

Stuttgart/Germany, 20 April 2007. Wyeth Lederle Pharma, owned by Wyeth Corporation, one of the largest pharmaceutical groups worldwide, will continue its exclusive partnership with Movianto's subsidiary in Austria, Sanova Pharma for the distribution of ambient and cold chain drugs in Austria.

For Wyeth, Sanova Pharma will not only take care of the storage, transport and distribution of chilled and ambient pharmaceuticals to wholesalers and hospitals throughout Austria, but will also provide additional services, such as order processing, pick & pack or cash collection.

In the pharmaceutical sector, existing contracts with outsourcing service providers are regularly examined. For this reason, Wyeth too had put the Austrian logistics and distribution contract out to tender once again. Sanova Pharma emerged from that process as the successful tenderer.

Christian Knoblich, Managing Director of Sanova Pharma, explained, "As a result of the collaboration with Sanova Pharma, our clients can optimise their supply chain and also respond flexibly and reliably to the market demands. At the same time they benefit from our decades of experience on the Austrian market and our knowledge of the local consumer structures."
